ITN Description and Specifications

- ITN Title: ‘Solar Dancer’ Tomato Hybrid
- ITN Number: ITN21-01
- ITN Territory: As proposed by ITN respondents
- ITN Announcement Date: January 15, 2021
- ITN Proposal Due Date: Friday, February 26, 2021, 12PM ET

- Cultivar Description:

‘Solar Dancer’, tested as Fla. 8982, is a heat-tolerant, tospovirus and fusarium wilt resistant fresh market tomato hybrid. It has strong, medium to large-size, determinate vines with good fruit cover. Fruit of ‘Solar Dancer’ are large with uniform green shoulders, deep flat-round shape, and smooth blossom scars. Fruit maintain a regular symmetrical shape and have demonstrated good resistance against radial and concentric cracking as well as cuticle cracking. ‘Solar Dancer’ has yielded well relative to commercial controls (Tables 1). ‘Solar Dancer’ also has superior fruit setting ability and early maturity under high temperature conditions which may provide an attractive option for growers in the early fall Florida production season, as well as for growers in other areas where disease resistance and heat-tolerance are desirable. In addition, ‘Solar Dancer’ may be well-suited as a main-season variety in various production areas of the Southeast. Fruit flavor of ‘Solar Dancer’ was rated over several seasons as a 3 (acceptable) on a scale from 1 (poor) to 5 (excellent). Fruit firmness and exterior color of ‘Solar Dancer’ are comparable to other commercial hybrids. The internal flesh and locule color of ‘Solar Dancer’ is deep red, typical of tomatoes with the crimson (og^c) gene (Figure 1 and Table 2). The interior L* and hue angle scores for ‘Solar Dancer’ is similar to that of ‘Fla. 8153’ (Tasti-Lee® brand), also a crimson hybrid, and these are lower than the L* and hue angle scores for other non-crimson hybrids, indicating darker and deeper red color.

Fruit size averaged \approx 180 grams. 'Solar Dancer' has resistance to three tospoviruses; Tomato spotted wilt virus (TSWV), ground nut ring spot virus (GRSV), and tomato chlorotic spot virus (TCSV) all conferred by the Sw-5 gene. 'Solar Dancer' also carries resistance to all three races of fusarium wilt incited by Fusarium oxysporum f. sp. lycopersici.

What is an ITN?

Newly developed cultivars, experimental lines, and plant germplasm are routinely approved for release through UF's Florida Agricultural Experiment Station (FAES). Florida Foundation Seed Producers, Inc. (FFSP), a non-profit corporation and direct support organization of the University of Florida, is continuously seeking strategic production and marketing companies in commercialization of a diverse portfolio of newly developed plant cultivars. For certain crops, several companies may express interest in an opportunity for an exclusive license for an improved plant cultivar. The Invitation to Negotiate (ITN), implemented in 2006, is a process which enables FFSP to fairly and objectively evaluate all commercial proposals and comments to effectively identify superior companies to deliver new cultivars to the public. In return, licensed companies provide royalties back to FFSP for reinvestment in the breeding and development of new, improved cultivars at the FAES.

The ITN process encourages an open engagement of all interested companies and stakeholders. Companies submitting proposals and/or comments to an ITN will be evaluated consistently and fairly by a review committee comprised of staff members of FFSP and expert faculty advisors from FAES.

FFSP strives to secure the partner/partners that best meet the needs of the State of Florida and its people, UF, and the FAES breeding program. Responders to the ITN will be evaluated using a consistent methodology, allowing review committee members to weigh core elements and objectively evaluate multiple proposals. The ITN specifications objectively guide critical responses in a proposal and are designed to explore the project's commercial scope for a sustainable business, consistent with the necessity to deliver FAES plant breeding products and technology to the public. The ITN requires interested companies to describe their prior experience and current business model. Companies are asked to describe a plan of action concerning the new business opportunity. The ITN also requests details of marketing and production plans which will successfully deliver a sound commercial operation and ensure that sustaining royalties are returned to support the FAES breeding program. Initiation of an ITN and the participation by a company in an ITN process does not mean an exclusive agreement will be eventually awarded; only that responsive companies will receive consideration and a fair evaluation of proposals and comments submitted.

At the conclusion of the ITN process, it is everyone's hope that most details can be mutually agreed upon, resulting in an award of a license to a qualified and successful partner.

Please refer to the general conditions of this ITN for specific specifications and instructions.
